Continued growth by leveraging our leading shrink label market share in the North America, Europe and Japan and the ability to meet customer needs through proposal-driven solutions

I would first like to express my gratitude to our shareholders for their continued support and cooperation. In the fiscal year ended March 31, 2003, consolidated net sales rose 10.2% compared to the previous year to  $\pm$ 74,649 million, and operating income climbed 18.1% to  $\pm$ 6,233 million. We also posted large increases in ordinary income, which rose 20.2% to  $\pm$ 6,284 million, and net income, which jumped 59.6% to  $\pm$ 3,637 million.

In the domestic market, we added an array of highly desired functions to our shrink labels, a product that enjoys leading market share. As a result of their increased value, these new features have been well received by our customers.

In the North American market, more and more global companies are employing shrink labels for their core products. Having completed capital expenditures in 2002, we now have an infrastructure ready to further develop our business in 2003 in this region.

In the European market, we established a new base in France, taking account of the currency integration in Europe. The new base and our existing presence in the United Kingdom comprise the framework we need to expand our business in 2003.

Refusing to accept the status quo, we are committed to continued growth

Since its foundation, Fuji Seal has continued to change along with changes, and we believe that this attitude has contributed to our growth.

Our basic approach has always been to think together with customers about optimal solutions to the problems they face, and then make proposals to solve those problems.

In recent years, we have strengthened initiatives to ensure sustained growth. From a business perspective, working to secure short-term profits is a self-evident strategy. However, we have also demonstrated our commitment to a management style that gives priority to the environment and society as a whole through acquisition of ISO 14001 certification and other initiatives. We view corporate social responsibility as another important consideration and actively promote initiatives that take it into full account.

Because it is our shareholders' support that enables us to grow, as the president of Fuji Seal, I ask for your continuing support and encouragement in the year to come.

In the fiscal year ended March 31, 2003, the second year of our current five-year medium-term management plan, we achieved the sales and income levels initially targeted by the plan. The percentage of consolidated sales generated overseas increased to 26%, and this figure reflects strong performance turned in by shrink labels.

ADDING FUNCTIONALITY IN THE DOMESTIC MARKET

1. Shrink labels

New usage for shrink labels with a range of features has expanded

Looking at overall business and market conditions, a new container, the Bottle-can, performed well on the market in the year under review. This development has focused attention on the various features of shrink labels.

- Adding insulation to shrink labels has made previously hot-tothe-touch beverage containers easier to drink from. Insulating qualities also help keep container contents cool.
- The display area has expanded compared to direct-container printing by allowing the entire surface including curved surfaces to be used. This has increased the amount of decorative effects able to be printed on a container.
- Leaving container surfaces blank and printing labels for individual products have helped to dramatically reduce container inventories.

Functional beverages, which joined shrink labels with a variety of different containers, were launched on the market.

Shrink labels with 360-degree decoration have been also used on small-volume, functional beverages, increasing the number of items displayed that detail usage and awareness of fortified drinks.

For yogurt drinks, shrink labels with added functionality for decreasing the detrimental affects of light have been used in combination with PET containers.

OSAKA OFFICE

Fuji Seal, Inc.

In the food industry, shrink labels are also increasingly being used for instant cup noodles. We launched over-wrap shrink labels that can be used with round containers, following square ones. They are being used for a total of 45 different items. Use of these labels has enabled frequent, quick new product release and label-design changes, because the container itself can be kept blank and switchable. Additionally, resources can be saved because containers do not need to be thrown out when changes are made.

From now on, our challenges are to develop shrink labels with the functionality desired by the toiletries industry, as well as beverages and food products.

ADDING FUNCTIONALITY IN THE DOMESTIC MARKET

2. Communicating with labels

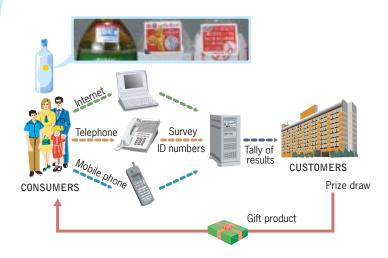

Enabling direct, interactive communication between manufacturers and consumers as our customers

Fuji Seal labels possess another important feature: they advertise and promote the sales campaigns of our customers' products. Our proprietarily developed ID tack and Fuji Seal Information Technology (FIT) sales promotion system are media that facilitate direct, expedited interactive communication between customer companies and consumers.

Customers do not need to rely completely on television and magazine advertisements, as the pressure-sensitive label enables the product itself to be a form of direct communications with consumers. This label has been highly evaluated by customers.

FIT SYSTEM

Under FIT, the Fuji Seal Information Technology system, ID numbers, free-dial numbers and gift product information are printed on the seals attached to product labels. Consumers can then access the FIT system by telephone or the Internet to take part in quizzes and surveys. The system is ideally suited to those customers who wish to make direct contact with consumers rather than relying on distributors, and offers a higher response rate than postcards and similar feedback devices. Cost-effectiveness is also extremely high, and the speed with which consumers can begin using the system is another specific advantage.

ADDING FUNCTIONALITY IN THE DOMESTIC MARKET

3. Soft pouches

Rapid growth by strategically leveraging our strength in packaging and machinery system sales

The number of items in beverage and jelly product categories using Soft pouches continued to increase in the fiscal year under review. Fuji Seal has developed a proprietary, integrated application system that covers processes through to filling container contents. It is the world's fastest such system and has helped to streamline customer-filling lines. Going forward, we plan to draw on this strength in integrated packaging and machinery systems to expand into other product areas.

THE NORTH AMERICAN MARKET

Shrink label market steadily expanding

Shrink labels are increasingly being used for the core products of global companies. The primary reason for this trend is that customers want to distinguish their products with containers that are easy to hold, unique, and attractive to consumers. The shrink label, with its increased display area, decorative features, and capacity to reduce inventories of variously designed containers, consistently outranks the competition in terms of its ability to satisfy these needs.

Another reason is that we have worked for many years to introduce shrink label application machinery and the resulting high production ratios at customer sites have been duly recognized. Usage of shrink labels for dairy and food products in particular is growing extremely quickly. This differs from Japan, where PET bottles for beverages are the mainstream.

One of the characteristics of the North American market is "dash-board dining." These are simple meals that can be consumed in the car on the way to work or school. Soup is one such popular dashboard dining product. In this field, our proposed heat-resistant labels have been adopted.

An issue in the North American market is that competitor companies are increasing as the shrink label market expands. To meet this challenge, we are continuing to demonstrate our superiority in terms of quality, delivery and cost and are strengthening our proposal-oriented sales activities.

THE EUROPEAN MARKET

Systems for business development established for the European market

A giant European market that includes Eastern Europe is emerging as the euro zone continues to expand. Fuji Seal initiatives directed at global companies are continuing to contribute to our customers' business development.

In the very large European market, customers need to develop powerful and flexible brand images. More and more, they are choosing to use shrink labels for design consistency. Shrink labels are also favored because they allow makers to create localized packaging for individual countries.

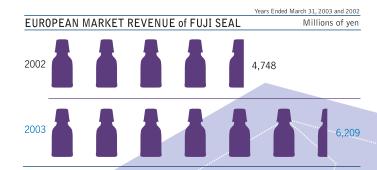

We are also contributing to customers' rationalization initiatives, as installation machinery is standardized across various sites.

Our sales network includes a sales base in Paris, and Fuji Seal products are starting to be used by customers in the French domestic market. Additionally, we acquired the French company F.B. FINANCE S.A. (now Fuji Seal Europe S.A., the parent company of Fuji Buriot S.A.), increasing the size of our production infrastructure. Combined with our plant in the United Kingdom, this allows us to deliver an even steadier supply of products to customers. We now have a system in place that ensures we can sufficiently meet the challenge of further market growth.

In the European market, it is expected that the ability to handle more sophisticated label designs will be an important factor in future growth.

THE ASEAN MARKET

Achieving high-quality, differentiated products

Currently, we are developing sales activities emanating mainly from our business base in Thailand, and working to expand our business in the entire ASEAN region in the next fiscal year. We are approaching global companies in the region and making proposals that distinguish us from local competitors. More specifically, we are differentiating ourselves in the areas of printing quality and materials. The ASEAN region is an enormous market, and we are committed to growth there by winning appreciation for the functionality we supply.

CONTINUING TO GROW BY RESPONDING TO THE NEEDS OF GLOBAL CUSTOMERS

Through direct dealings with global companies in numerous locations, Fuji Seal is able to keep up with the various changes in the marketplace. By constantly responding to these changes and developing the functions demanded by customers, we continuously offer value to augment our customers' products in the form of the label.

Customer requirements differ somewhat from region to region. In North America, clients prize functionality, efficiency and speed. In Europe, they particularly appreciate sophisticated design, fine-tuned printing technology and environmental friendliness. In Japan, they target quality, special needs of products for vending machines and short delivery times for convenience store-targeted products. Responding to these needs, Fuji Seal will continue to grow along with our customers as an advanced and innovative company.

In line with the five-year medium-term management plan, which Fuji Seal embarked upon in the fiscal year ended March 31, 2002, the Company aims to achieve consolidated net sales of ¥100 billion and ordinary income of ¥10 billion in the fiscal year ended March 31, 2006, the final fiscal year covered by the plan. Fuji Seal met the annual target levels for net sales and ordinary income set forth for the fiscal year under review, the second year covered under the plan, indicating that the Company is proceeding smoothly toward successful completion of the remaining objectives stipulated in the plan.

NET SALES

For the fiscal year ended March 31, 2003, Fuji Seal recorded consolidated net sales of ¥74,649 million, up 10.2% from the previous fiscal year. The increase was driven primarily by the significant growth in sales of shrink labels, which increased 13.9% to ¥39,740 million, along with sales of machinery, which jumped 21.1% to ¥8,795 million. By region, the growth of North American and European markets contributed greatly to the overall expansion of sales. Net sales by region are as follows.

Japan

Sales of shrink labels, for which Fuji Seal continually seeks to carve out new markets, continued to post steady growth, fueled by expansion of the market for hot beverages, an increase in new dairy-related products, and growing orders from processed food concerns. Sales of pressure-sensitive labels, on the other hand, failed to reach the previous year's level, which could be explained by a cutback in the use of campaign labels (eye-catching labels for sales promotion) due to a temporary change in campaign techniques. Nevertheless, sales of machinery and Soft pouches continued to grow significantly. As a result, net sales increased 6.0% to ¥56,379 million.

North America

Leading companies with a global presence became more active in their use of shrink labels for their products. Companies in the fields of foods and dairy beverages in particular contributed to Fuji Seal's sizable growth in sales of shrink labels and machinery. As a result, net sales increased 22.5% to ¥13,301 million.

Europe

Orders from leading manufacturers of dairy beverages, foods and toiletries remained brisk, while sales of shrink labels and machinery grew substantially. As a result, net sales jumped 30.8% to  $\pm 6,209$  million.

COST OF SALES, SELLING, GENERAL AND ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSES AND OPERATING INCOME

Cost of sales rose 10.8% in the period under review, to ¥59,506 million. Cost of sales accounted for 79.7% of net sales, up 0.4 percentage point. This was attributable primarily to an expense reallocation of approximately ¥400 million from selling, general and administrative (SG&A) expenses to manufacturing costs to better reflect the actual cost composition.

SG&A expenses increased 2.2% to ¥8,909 million. Such expenses accounted for 11.9% of net sales, down 1.0 percentage point from the previous fiscal year. The increase in SG&A expenses was due to the additional inclusion of unpaid legal welfare expense of accrued bonuses amounting to ¥74 million. However, the expense reallocation from SG&A expenses to manufacturing costs totaled about ¥400 million to better reflect the true state of the cost outlay, which contributed to lowering SG&A expenses as a percentage of net sales. As a result, operating income for the Group increased 18.1% to ¥6,233 million.

By region, operating income in Japan rose 11.0% to ¥6,048 million. Operating income was buoyed by the effects of investment in new products and technological development during the previous fiscal year; the successful operations of the Yuki Factory in Ibaraki Prefecture, which was acquired in June 2002 and is assuming an increasingly viable role in the Company as a unit that produces results; and greater flexibility in personnel composition, due to Fuji Partners, Inc. Overseas, a series of substantial investments were made in North America for the launch of production lines for shrink labels in the Main Factory in the U.S. state of Kentucky, but as a result of a six-month delay, a one-time loss was incurred.

Additionally, the Company faced cost-cutting competition in wrap-around labels, which belong to the category of other labels. This exerted downward pressure on the prices of the labels. As a result, the Company posted an operating loss of ¥363 million, compared with an operating loss of ¥269 million recorded the previous fiscal year. In Europe, on the other hand, rationalization efforts aiming at improved production efficiency and growing sales of machinery paid off, and these, along with a steady increase in sales resulted in a 8.7-fold rise in operating income to ¥540 million, which helped the Company continue its path to a V-shaped recovery.

NET INCOME

In the category of other income (expenses), the Company recorded net other expenses of ¥81 million, compared with net other expenses of ¥365 million a year earlier. Major factors behind the comparative improvement included other, net income of ¥227 million and a decline in interest expenses, which offset a larger net loss on sales or disposal of property, plant and equipment and a drop in equity in earnings of affiliates.

Income before income taxes and minority interests rose 25.2% to ¥6,152 million. Net income jumped 59.6% to ¥3,637 million, reflecting positive tax effects stemming from reductions in income taxes, among others, amounting to  $\pm 311$  million in connection with the liquidation of Fuji Alpha, Inc. Net income per share was  $\pm 239.02$ .

FINANCIAL POSITION

Total assets as of March 31, 2003 were ¥61,419 million, reflecting a year-on-year increase of 6.4%, or ¥3,691 million.

Current assets increased ¥1,040 million, or 3.3%, to ¥32,834 million.

Fixed assets increased ¥2,651 million, or 10.2%, to ¥28,585 million.

Property, plant and equipment was up 7.0%, or ¥1,614 million, to ¥24,542 million. This was largely attributable to an increase in land owned as a result of the acquisition of the Yuki Factory, among others.

Investments and other assets expanded 34.5%, or ¥1,037 million, to ¥4,042 million.

Total liabilities increased 4.4%, or ¥1,542 million, to ¥36,558 million.

Total shareholders' equity rose 11.1%, or ¥2,390 million, to ¥23,948 million. Factors affecting this item included an increase in legal reserve against a background of strong earnings, as well as adjustments for retirement pension liabilities for American Fuji Seal, Inc. totaling ¥399 million and foreign currency translation adjustments of ¥412 million.

CASH FLOWS

Consolidated cash and cash equivalents at the end of the fiscal year under review stood at ¥4,976 million. A net increase of ¥673 million, or 15.6%, reflects a rise in income before income taxes and minority interests and an increase in depreciation, which were offset by payments for purchase of property, plant and equipment. The continued growth in cash and cash equivalents for the second straight year serves as evidence of stronger financial health, achieved by a balanced business approach in which investment activities accompanying business expansion have been augmented while previous investments have begun to yield consistent results.

The principal sources and uses of cash for the fiscal year under review were as follows.

Cash Flows from Operating Activities

Net cash provided by operating activities was up 83.9% to 46,547 million. The expansion was largely attributable to an increase in income before income taxes and minority interests and in depreciation, along with efforts to recover trade receivables and reduce inventories.

Cash Flows from Investing Activities

Net cash used in investing activities increased 85.6% to ¥6,159 million. This result was attributable primarily to the acquisition of property, plant and equipment by domestic and U.S. subsidiaries including American Fuji Seal.

Cash Flows from Financing Activities

Net cash provided by financing activities decreased 60.5% to ¥345 million. This was due to an increase in cash derived from short-term bank loans and long-term debt, which were offset in part by the repayment of long-term debt.

CAPITAL EXPENDITURES

The Company made capital expenditures totaling ¥5,133 million in an attempt to boost production capacity and improve quality during the fiscal year under review. Such expenditures included a substantial investment of approximately ¥2,500 million for the launch of shrink-label production facilities at the Head Office Factory in Kentucky.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

The Fuji Seal Group's research and development activities seek to grasp customers' needs through sales-related departments, the core of which is the Sales Planning Department, and to develop new products, technologies and materials by uniting the R&D Center, Purchasing Department, and relevant Group companies. R&D expenditures for the fiscal year under review increased 42.3% to $1,585 million, accounting for 2.1% of net sales.

Depreciation of property, plant and equipment other than buildings acquired by the Company and its domestic subsidiaries on or after April 1, 1998 is mainly computed using the declining balance method. Buildings acquired on or after April 1, 1998 are depreciated based on the straight line method. The range of useful lives is principally from 3 to 50 years for buildings and structures and from 2 to 13 years for machinery and equipment.

(h) Accounting for Leases

Where the finance leases do not transfer ownership of the leased property to the lessee during the lease terms or on their terminations, the leased property is not capitalized and the relating lease expenses are charged to income in the period incurred in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in Japan.

Accrued employees' bonuses included in accrued expenses are calculated based on the amount estimated to be paid.

(n) Accrued Retirement Benefits

The Company and its domestic subsidiaries accrued retirement benefits of employees based on the amount of projected benefit obligation minus pension plan assets at fair value. The actuarial differences are amortized using the straight line method over 10 years from the next year of which arise.

The accrued retirement benefits include retirement allowance for the directors and corporate auditors, which are estimated the amount that would be paid at the balance sheet date in accordance with the internal regulations if all directors and corporate auditors retired at that date. Accrued income taxes are provided at the amount currently payable.

The Company and its consolidated subsidiaries adopt the interperiod income tax allocation accounting, using the assets and liabilities method in which deferred tax assets and liabilities are recognized for the expected tax consequences of temporary differences between the tax bases of assets and liabilities and their reported amounts in the consolidated financial statements.

(p) Net Income and Dividend Per Share

Basic net income per share is computed based on the weighted average number of shares of common stock outstanding during each year. The average number of share used in the computation was 15,219,138 and 16,170,027 for the year ended March 31, 2003 and 2002, respectively.

Diluted net income per share assumes full conversion of outstanding convertible bonds at the beginning of the year (or at the time of issuance, if after the beginning of the year) with an applicable adjustment for related net-of-tax interest expense.

1,420,732 shares of convertible bonds outstanding were added as incremental effect, while 60,000 shares of warrant in connection with stock option and 1,500 of stock acquisition rights were not included, in the averaged number of share on computation of diluted net income per share for the year ended March 31, 2003.

Effective from the year ended March 31, 2003, the Company and its subsidiaries have adopted the new Accounting Standard for Earnings per Share and Implementation Guidance on Accounting Standard for Earnings per Share. There is no effect of the adoption of new standard for the year ended March 31, 2003.

Cash dividends per share represent interim dividends paid and annual dividends declared as applicable to the respective years.

(q) Appropriation of Retained Earnings

Under the Japanese Commercial Code and the Articles of Incorporation of the Company, a proposal by the Board of Directors for the appropriation of retained earnings (principally the payment of annual cash dividends) should be approved by a shareholders' meeting which must be held within three months after the end of each financial year. The appropriation of retained earnings reflected in the accompanying consolidated financial statements for each financial year represents the appropriation which was approved by the shareholders' meeting and disposed of during that year but which related to the immediately preceding financial year.

The payment of bonuses to directors and corporate auditors is made out of retained earnings instead of being charged to income for the year and constitutes a part of the appropriation referred to the above.

9. Shareholders' Equity

Prior to October 1, 2001, the Japanese Commercial Code provided that at least 50% of the issue price of new shares, with a minimum of the par value thereof, should be designated as stated capital. The portion which is to be designated as stated capital is determined by resolution of the Board of Directors. Proceeds in excess of the amounts designated as stated capital are credited to additional paid-in capital. An amount equal to at least 10% of cash dividends and other appropriations of retained earnings paid out with respect to each financial period was set aside in a legal reserve until such reserve equals 25% of the amount of common stock.

Effective from October 1, 2001, the revised Commercial Code requires such appropriations until the total amount of additional paid in capital and earned reserve (collectively, "legal reserves") equals 25% of stated capital. In addition, under the revised Commercial Code, legal reserves may be available for dividends to the extent that legal reserves do not fall below 25% of stated capital, and the Company is allowed to repurchase its own shares to the extent that the aggregate cost of treasury shares does not exceed the maximum amount available for dividends.

Legal reserves may be transferred to stated capital by a resolution of the board of directors or used to reduce a deficit with the approval of a shareholders' meeting as before the revision of the Commercial Code.

The legal reserve of the Company and its consolidated subsidiaries are included in the retained earnings and are not shown separately in the accompanying consolidated balance sheets.
